

The Structured Master Mobility Program “Think Business, Go International! Berlin-Vienna-Zurich” is an international exchange program of the three Faculties of Business and Economics at the Humboldt University in Berlin, the University of Vienna, and the University of Zurich. Joining the forces of three leading university faculties in Central Europe, the program aims at Master students who are interested in a leading business or academic career.

The Structured Master Mobility Program “Think Business, Go International! Berlin-Vienna-Zurich” consists of an exchange semester at one of the partner institutions and networking events during the exchange semester. It spans a minimum period of one semester. Students finishing the program will be issued an official certification signed by the partner institutions, supplementing the Master degree of their home university.

Program Details The Structured Master Mobility Program is designed to become an integral and complementary part of the respective Master programs of the participating Faculties. Whitelists of courses guaranteed to be recognized at the home institution facilitate the exchange and allow for finishing one’s master program on time.

Target Group The program aims at excellent Master students of the Business Economics Programs at Humboldt University, University of Vienna and University of Zurich. Applicants are expected to gain maximum experience in a very short time in top universities of the three German-speaking countries Germany, Austria and Switzerland. The program is intended to bring together an international group of students with a joint interest in business research with a microeconomic and empirical foundation. Students will become part of a well-connected cohort of future leading business executives or academics.
